

Amazon.in Refund Policy provides information on refund methods, refund timelines, and other applicable terms and conditions for items purchased on Amazon.in. Customers can view the policy in their preferred language by selecting the appropriate language from the country flag menu on the top banner. In the event of any discrepancy or conflict between translated versions and the English version, the English version shall prevail. The policy covers refund timelines, refunds for Pay on Delivery orders, paper cheque clearing, Amazon Pay Later refunds, refunds for products purchased using EMI plans, and shipping cost refunds.

A refund for a returned or cancelled order is initiated once the returned package is received by Amazon. Refund requests are processed within thirteen days after successful pickup of the returned package. Refunds are credited to the original payment method for prepaid orders, while refunds for Pay on Delivery orders are issued either to the customer's bank account or as Amazon Pay Balance. The actual time taken for customers to receive the refund depends on the payment method used and begins after Amazon initiates the refund.

For prepaid orders, refunds credited to Amazon Pay Balance are generally completed within four hours. Refunds to credit cards, debit cards, net banking accounts, and UPI-linked bank accounts are generally completed within five working days for both Amazon Delivered and Seller-Fulfilled orders. For Pay on Delivery orders, refunds processed through NEFT to a bank account are generally completed within five working days after Amazon Delivered orders are received or after Seller-Fulfilled sellers notify Amazon of receiving the returned item. Refunds credited as Amazon Pay Balance are usually completed within four hours, while refunds issued through paper cheque may take up to ten working days. Amazon Pay Balance represents the combined balance of all Amazon Gift Cards associated with an Amazon.in account. Amazon Gift Cards are issued by Pine Labs Private Limited under the Qwiksilver brand and are governed by the applicable Amazon Gift Card Terms and Conditions.

If the standard refund timeframe has expired and the customer has still not received the refund, the customer should contact the bank or the credit or debit card issuer for additional information. Refunds are never processed in cash and are issued through paper cheque only in exceptional circumstances. If the credit card or debit card used for placing the order is no longer active or has expired, customers should contact Amazon Customer Service for assistance. International customers must contact Amazon Customer Service to receive refunds, which will always be credited to the original payment method or payment instrument used for the purchase. Refunds are initiated only after the returned item has been picked up and received at Amazon's Fulfilment Centre. Customers who do not receive their refund within the specified timeframe should contact their bank using the Refund Reference Number (RRN) available in the Refunds section of the Transactions History.

For Seller-Fulfilled orders, if a returned item is found to be damaged or defective and cannot be repaired or replaced, the seller will issue a refund. Whenever a refund is required for a Seller-Fulfilled order, the seller must first authorize the refund. Amazon can facilitate the refund process only after the seller confirms receipt of the returned item. Once the seller notifies Amazon that the returned product has been received, the applicable refund processing timeline begins according to the standard refund schedule.

Refunds for Pay on Delivery orders are processed either to the customer's bank account through the National Electronic Funds Transfer (NEFT) system or as Amazon Pay Balance. Customers who wish to receive their refund directly into their bank account can update their bank account details either through the Your Account section or during the return process in the Returns Centre. On the Amazon mobile application, customers can navigate to Orders, select the relevant order, choose the Return or Replace Items option, select "Refund to your bank account," choose "Choose a bank account," and then select "Add a new bank account" before entering the required bank account details. On the Amazon website, customers can follow a similar process by opening Orders, selecting the order, choosing the Return or Replacement Items option, selecting "Refund to your bank account," choosing "Choose a bank account," selecting "Add a new bank account," and entering the necessary bank account information. Refunds cannot be transferred to third-party bank accounts, and the name registered on the Amazon account must exactly match the name of the bank account holder.

When refunds are issued through paper cheque, Amazon provides "at par" Deutsche Bank cheques. These cheques are cleared locally in Ahmedabad, Aurangabad, Bangalore, Chennai, Delhi, Gurgaon, Kolhapur, Kolkata, Ludhiana, Moradabad, Mumbai, Noida, Pune, Salem, Surat, and Vellore. Customers who present the cheque in any other city should ensure that their beneficiary bank submits the cheque for outstation clearing. If a cheque is deposited into a cheque clearance box, customers should use the Local Cheques box when depositing in any of the listed cities and the Outstation Cheques box when depositing in any other city. Failure to follow these instructions may result in delays in processing and may also lead to bank penalties. Once a refund cheque has been issued, Amazon sends an email containing the cheque tracking details within four business days from the refund date.

For Amazon Pay Later purchases, if no installment has yet been paid for the returned product, Amazon restores the customer's Amazon Pay Later credit limit by the full order value after the return is completed. If one or more installments have already been paid, the paid amount is refunded to the customer's bank account while simultaneously restoring the available Amazon Pay Later credit limit. Customers can refer to the Amazon Pay Later Help Page for additional information.

For products purchased using Easy Monthly Installment (EMI) plans, if the customer has already paid one or more EMI installments before returning the product, the amount already paid through EMI is refunded to the customer's credit card and the associated loan is cancelled. Customers can refer to the Easy Monthly Installments (EMI) Help Page for further information. For EMI closure details, customers using Bajaj Finserv EMI Cards should contact Bajaj Finserv directly or write to wecare@bajajfinserv.in for assistance. Customers using any other credit card should contact their respective card issuing bank regarding EMI closure procedures. Card issuing banks may charge nominal pre-closure fees if one or more EMI installments have already been paid.

For Fulfilled by Amazon and Prime Eligible items, return shipping charges of up to 100 rupees are refunded to the customer's Amazon Pay Balance. Any gift-wrapping charges paid for the returned item are also refunded to the customer's Amazon Pay Balance. If customers incur return shipping charges exceeding 100 rupees for returning large or heavy items, they may contact Amazon Customer Service to request reimbursement of the additional shipping charges. To claim this reimbursement, customers must provide proof of payment, such as a courier receipt. For Seller-Fulfilled items, customers may request reimbursement of return shipping charges directly from the seller, who may ask for a courier receipt as supporting evidence. However, sellers are not required to reimburse shipping charges when the return is made due to buyer's remorse, such as ordering the wrong product, selecting the wrong size, or changing one's mind after purchase.
