

The Amazon.in Returns and Replacements Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ) page provides answers to common questions regarding returns, refunds, replacements, return eligibility, tracking return requests, gift returns, gift cards, replacement policies, shipping charge refunds, and warranty-related queries for products purchased on Amazon.in. Customers can access the information in their preferred language by selecting the desired language from the country flag menu displayed on the top banner. Customers who wish to return or replace an item can do so by visiting the Your Orders section of their Amazon account.

Items can be returned only if they are identified as returnable on the product detail page and are still within the applicable return window. Eligible products display the applicable return category, such as 10 Days Returnable, 7 Days Return & Exchange, or other category-specific return policies on the product page. Customers can refer to the Amazon.in Returns Policy for a complete list of returnable and non-returnable product categories, applicable return windows, and instructions for reporting issues related to smartphones, tablets, laptops, televisions, air conditioners, refrigerators, washing machines, and microwave ovens.

Products that are physically damaged, defective, missing parts or accessories, or different from the description displayed on the product detail page are eligible for return. Customers may also return eligible products if they change their mind and no longer wish to keep the item. Additional information regarding damaged or defective products is available on the Damaged or Defective Product FAQ page. Customers may also request a refund if the product is missing and the package has been tampered with, if they receive an empty package, or if accessories or other components are missing from the delivered order. To validate a customer's identity while processing certain refunds, Amazon may request identity proof. Customers are advised to review Amazon's Privacy Policy to understand how their personal data will be processed and are specifically instructed not to share Aadhaar data.

Customers should note that orders may occasionally be divided into multiple shipments. As a result, all products in a single order may not be delivered together, and each shipment will arrive according to the delivery date displayed in the Your Orders section. Customers ordering books should also note that although Amazon attempts to include bookmarks with certain books, bookmarks are not guaranteed to be included with every book order.

Certain categories of products are non-returnable. Consumable products such as wax candles, pet food, pet grooming products, cleaning products, fertilizers, and similar consumable items cannot be returned. Customers should refer to the Amazon.in Returns Policy for the complete list of non-returnable categories and the return windows applicable to eligible product categories.

To return an eligible product, customers should first sign in to their Amazon.in account and navigate to the Your Orders section. They should select the item they wish to return or replace, choose the appropriate reason for the return from the available options, and follow the on-screen instructions to complete the return request. Additional guidance is available on the How to Schedule a Return help page. Products sold by third-party marketplace sellers are identified on the product page with the message "Sold and Shipped by" followed by the seller's name. Customers requiring information about returning marketplace products should refer to the Return Orders Placed with a Third-party Seller help page. If a marketplace seller does not respond to or resolve a customer's issue within three business days, the customer may file an A-to-Z Guarantee claim.

Customers should ensure that both the delivery address and the product satisfy Amazon's return eligibility requirements before requesting a return. If the delivery address is not eligible for return pickup, Amazon provides a Self-Return option instead. Customers can refer to the Return Pickup and Self-Ship Guidelines for additional information. Once a return has been successfully processed, refunds are issued in accordance with the Amazon.in Refund Policy. Refunds for Pay on Delivery orders are credited either to the customer's bank account through National Electronic Funds Transfer (NEFT) or as Amazon Pay Balance.

Customers can monitor the status of their return or refund request by accessing the Your Orders section, locating the returned order, and selecting Return/Refund Status. Return requests can also be managed through the Returns Centre.

Gift items that are eligible for refund or replacement under Amazon's return policy may also be returned by the gift recipient, provided the sender included a Gift Receipt with the order. Instead of receiving the original payment, eligible gift returns are refunded in the form of an Amazon Pay Gift Card. Customers can refer to the Gift Receipts help page for detailed instructions on returning gift items.

Amazon Gift Cards cannot be cancelled or returned after purchase because of applicable regulatory restrictions. Customers can refer to the Amazon Pay Gift Card help page for information regarding adding gift card balances to their account, redeeming gift cards, and understanding applicable restrictions.

Customers may request a replacement if the delivered product arrives damaged or defective, does not match the description displayed on the Amazon website, or is missing parts or accessories. Free replacement is available only if the identical product is available from the same seller. Customers can refer to the Amazon.in Replacement Policy and the Damaged or Defective Item Frequently Asked Questions for additional details regarding replacement eligibility.

Replacement products cannot be delivered to a different address from the one used for the original order. Customers who need delivery to a new address are advised to return the original product for a refund, provided it is eligible for return, and then place a new order using the desired delivery address.

Customers who receive an incorrect product may either request a replacement or return the item for a refund. To remain eligible for return, the incorrect item should be kept in its original condition and original packaging. Additional guidance is available on the Wrong Product Delivered help page.

If the original order value was less than 499 rupees, a standard shipping charge of 40 rupees applies. Since replacement products are shipped using the standard shipping method and the original order did not qualify for free shipping, this shipping charge is non-refundable.

Customers do not need to request a refund or replacement solely because a warranty card or user manual is missing from the package. The purchase invoice serves as valid proof for claiming warranty coverage. Customers can verify whether these items were intended to be included by checking the Included Components, What's in the Box, and About the Item sections on the product detail page. This policy applies only to Large Appliances, Home Entertainment products, and Air Coolers.
