

Amazon.in Returns Policy provides information on return eligibility, timelines, and other terms and conditions for items purchased on Amazon.in. In the event of any discrepancy or conflict, the English version of the policy will prevail over any translated version. Most items purchased from sellers listed on Amazon.in are returnable within the applicable return window unless they are explicitly identified as non-returnable. For products returned by customers, refunds are issued to the original payment method for prepaid transactions, while Pay on Delivery orders are refunded to the customer's bank account or credited as Amazon Pay balance. The refund process, required details, and applicable timelines are described in Amazon's Refund Policy.

The General Returns Policy states that Amazon reserves the right to warn, suspend, block, or terminate customer accounts if customers are found to misuse the return policy by excessively returning products, cancelling orders, or refusing to accept deliveries. Products that are eligible for return can be returned within the applicable return window if they are received in a physically damaged condition, have missing parts or accessories, are defective, or are different from the description provided on the product detail page on Amazon.in.

If a customer reports an issue with products such as smartphones, tablets, laptops, televisions, air conditioners, refrigerators, washing machines, or microwave ovens, Amazon may facilitate scheduling a technician visit to the customer's location. The availability of this service depends on the serviceability of the customer's PIN code and is arranged through Amazon Home Services. Subject to the applicable Home Services Terms and Conditions, a resolution will be provided based on the technician's evaluation report.

Before processing a return, Amazon performs verification checks. A return is processed only if it is determined that the product was not damaged while in the customer's possession, the product being returned is the same product that was shipped, and the item is returned in its original condition. This includes the original manufacturer's box, intact MRP tag, user manual, warranty card, and all accessories originally included with the product.

Customers returning electronic devices that may contain personal information are responsible for removing all personal data before returning the device. Amazon accepts no responsibility or liability for any misuse or access to personal information that remains on returned devices.

Some products may not be eligible for return in situations described under the Return Policy Types section of the policy. These situations include cases of buyer's remorse, such as ordering the wrong product, selecting the wrong model, or choosing the wrong color. Products marked as "non-returnable" on the product detail page cannot ordinarily be returned. However, if such products are delivered in a damaged, defective, or incorrect condition, Amazon will provide a replacement or full refund as applicable. Amazon may contact the customer to verify the reported issue and reserves the right to collect the product for inspection before approving a refund or replacement.

For products that include the Inspection Service, if the customer verifies through the inspection process that the delivered product is correct, undamaged, and includes all accessories, and then shares the required One-Time Password (OTP), the customer cannot subsequently claim that the product was incorrect, damaged, or missing accessories for the purpose of requesting a return.

Unless specifically mentioned in category-specific policies, no additional information or documentation is required to return an eligible order. Products are eligible for replacement only when the same seller has an identical item available in stock. If the seller does not have the exact replacement item, Amazon will issue a refund instead of a replacement for products that are otherwise eligible under the applicable return policy.

Products purchased by international customers are generally not eligible for returns. However, international customers may be eligible for refunds if they contact Amazon Customer Service within five business days of the delivery date or the estimated delivery date. Customers located in India should always refer to the product detail page to verify the applicable replacement or return window before making a purchase. Amazon Business customers can refer to the Amazon Business Return Window policy for return timelines applicable to business orders. Customers who receive products through the Amazon Vine Program and discover that the products are faulty should contact Amazon using the "Contact Us" option available within the Amazon Vine Portal.

Amazon does not permit unlimited or unrestricted returns. If customers are found to be repeatedly returning products, cancelling orders, or refusing deliveries, Amazon may charge a Return Processing Fee in addition to warning, suspending, blocking, or terminating the customer's account. This fee helps cover the operational costs associated with processing returned products and is deducted from the refund amount before the refund is issued, subject to Amazon's Terms and Conditions of Use. Amazon reserves the right to modify, waive, or update the Return Processing Fee at its discretion. Any withholding tax collected on the Return Processing Fee will not be reimbursed to customers.

Customers who receive a non-returnable product in a damaged or defective condition should contact Amazon within five days of delivery. All product categories purchased by international customers as export orders are treated as non-returnable. Customers are advised to review the return or replacement policy displayed on the product page before purchasing any item, as return eligibility varies depending on the product category.

The Return Policy Types define the conditions under which different products may be returned, replaced, repaired, or refunded. Customers are advised to review the return or replacement policy displayed on the product detail page before purchasing, as the applicable policy varies by product category.

Under the 7/10 Days Service Centre Replacement policy, customers who receive a defective item must contact the respective brand's authorized service centre for further assistance. For certain products, Amazon may arrange a technician visit to the customer's location solely for troubleshooting purposes. Based on the service centre's assessment or the technician's evaluation, the brand will determine the final resolution, which may include repair, replacement, or refund according to the brand's policies. If the product is delivered in a damaged condition or a different or incorrect item is received, the customer is eligible for a free replacement within seven or ten days of delivery, depending on the product. Customers must return the item in its original condition, including the manufacturer's packaging, MRP tags, user manual, warranty card, and all original accessories. Amazon may contact the customer or conduct verification checks before approving a replacement or refund.

Under the 7/10 Days Replacement by Brand policy, defective products are supported directly by the manufacturer. The brand provides on-call support and may schedule a technician inspection at the customer's location. Following the technician's evaluation, the brand may repair the product or provide a replacement in accordance with its service policies. Amazon provides the final resolution based on the technician's evaluation report. If the item delivered is damaged or different from what was ordered, the customer is entitled to a free replacement within seven or ten days of delivery. The returned product must include the original manufacturer packaging, MRP tags, warranty cards, user manuals, and all supplied accessories. Amazon may verify the reported issue before processing the replacement or refund.

Products covered under the 7/10 Days Replacement policy are eligible for a free replacement within seven or ten days of delivery if the product is defective, damaged, or different from the item ordered. Customers must return the product in its original condition together with the manufacturer's packaging, MRP tags, warranty documentation, user manuals, and all original accessories. For selected products, Amazon may arrange a technician visit to inspect the item. Based on the technician's evaluation report, Amazon will determine the appropriate resolution, which may include replacement, repair, or refund.

Products covered under the 10/30 Days Returnable policy are eligible for a free return or replacement within ten or thirty days of delivery if the delivered item is damaged, defective, or different from the ordered product. Customers may also return the product within the applicable return window for a full refund even if they choose not to request a replacement. For a successful return, the product must be returned in its original condition, including the brand's outer box, MRP tags, warranty cards, user manuals, and all original accessories contained in the manufacturer's packaging. Amazon may contact the customer or perform verification checks to confirm the reported damage or defect before approving the replacement or refund.

Products covered under the 10 Day Free Returns & Exchange policy may be returned within ten days of delivery. Customers may also exchange eligible products for a different size or color, subject to product availability, or return the item for a full refund. Returned items must include the brand's outer packaging, MRP tags, warranty cards, and all original accessories to qualify for a successful refund or exchange.

Items classified as Non-Returnable are generally not eligible for returns. However, if such items are delivered in a damaged, defective, or incorrect condition, Amazon will provide a free replacement or full refund, as applicable. Amazon may contact the customer to verify the reported issue and may collect the product for inspection before approving the refund or replacement.

The policy also specifies category-specific return windows and exceptions. For Amazon Digital Devices, including Echo devices, Alexa-enabled products, Fire TV Stick, Kindle e-readers, and Amazon accessories for these devices, the applicable policy is 7 Days Replacement Only. Customers seeking warranty-related assistance should refer to the Amazon Device Replacement Policies. Kindle Books are eligible for a refund only in cases of accidental purchases, and such refund requests must be submitted within seven days of purchase by following the prescribed process.

For Alexa Paid Skills and In-Skill Purchases, paid Alexa skills qualify for a full refund if the customer contacts Amazon Customer Support within three days of purchase. One-time in-skill purchases and consumable digital purchases are non-returnable because of their consumable digital nature. However, in-skill subscription purchases remain eligible for a full refund when the customer contacts Amazon Customer Support within three days of purchase.

Products carrying the Inspect & Buy label fall under a 2 Days Refund Only policy, allowing customers to request a refund within two days of delivery according to the applicable terms.

For Seller Fulfilled Items, specific categories such as Fine Art, Sports Collectibles, Entertainment Collectibles, and Coin Collectibles require customers to notify the seller of any damage or defect within ten days of delivery. These categories follow seller-specific return procedures.

Customizable Products are non-returnable because they are manufactured or modified according to the customer's specifications. However, if a customizable product is delivered with manufacturing defects, physical damage, or incorrect customization, Amazon will provide a full refund as applicable after verifying the reported issue. Customers may also request a refund through the A-to-Z Guarantee claim process by following Amazon's prescribed procedure for submitting A-to-Z Guarantee refund requests.